

Disclaimer

Any common function generator of the proper frequency range can output the same frequencies Dr. Rife used. The GB-4000 is a 20 Megahertz Sweep/Function Generator. Function generators are not Rife machines or medical devices. They are electronic test equipment and should not be considered Rife machines. We make no medical claims at all on this site for the GB-4000. We also make no medical claims for what Dr. Rife said he was able to accomplish using frequencies. The frequencies that he said would devitalize microorganisms are only listed here for your information and do not constitute medical claims by us. Everything on this site is for informational purposes only. What people do with this equipment is their own personal business and responsibility.

If you have medical problems seek a medical professional. Under no circumstances should any information given on this web site be taken or understood as a diagnosis, as medical advice, or as directions contrary to the advice of any licensed physical or mental health care professional; and you affirm that you are fully aware that if you desire a diagnosis or treatment for any medical condition, you must consult a physician. You also understand that this website is not a medical institution, and that its employee(s) are neither medical doctors nor licensed medical practitioners.